Joy Manne brings her experience as a psychotherapist, her years of Vipassanna meditation, and her knowledge of Buddhism to a blend of East and West called "Soul Therapy". Her book is based on the premise that true and lasting healing comes from the Soul Quest, or spiritual development.

Imagine a small child growing up in an atmosphere of violence: physical, mental, emotional and sexual abuse. Her family is raised by a stepfather who abuses everyone in the home and a mother with a ninth grade education who feels trapped in her circumstances. That child grows up angry and ready to show the world how badly she was treated. It is the power of her soul that saves her. Soul Quest is told in a humorous fashion with heart as its guide and substance.

Excerpt from The Soul's Quest: And Other Poems
As I have wandered thro' the fields of life
Gay, happy fields, bright with the sun and sky
Flower after flower Has bloomed beside my path
And I have gathered them, a long-loved handful,
Which I offer now To the un pitying, cruel-laughing world.
And some are gay, Sparkling with joy and the bright sun of hope
And some are sad, Dipped in the crimson of the setting sun,
Or blasted by the cold of winter winds
But all the roots Are down, far down, within the spirit's depths,
Amid the voiceless shadows of the soul,
And each has sprung From the warm life-blood throbbing in my heart.

Beginning high school is a completely normal, human right of passage but how normal would it be for someone who isn't entirely human? Let's say you're special, capable of harnessing the Earth's energy to defeat soul sucking monsters and you don't even know it. You go to school, meet new people and form friendships only to discover that you and your new click are something otherworldly. Your life becomes a comic book cliché. By day you solve algebra problems and by night you rid the world of evil beings. This is my life. My quest is to protect innocent souls... and pass the ninth grade.

Times are changing, and so are our relationships with God. For many of us, it may be difficult to develop a deep spiritual relationship with God and live the way he intended within the framework of old methods. In ABC: Doing Life Well, author Jimmie Lloyd Lewis Jr. shares his revitalized new method of letting go of guilt and other negative emotions that may be keeping you from God. Rather than focusing on how to reach God, Lewis teaches how to reach God by focusing on you. Whether your trouble is guilt, judgment, or confusion, this guide explains how to deal with the issues that stand between you and the Almighty. Through acceptance and healing, Lewis shows that we can recover from anything and meet our spiritual potential to the fullest. If you've been struggling within the guidelines of antiquity to meet your spiritual potentials, perhaps it's time to try a new approach. Developing a meaningful relationship with God could be as easy as ABC.

Do you want to find your Soul's purpose and connect with your life's mission? Are you stuck and feeling as if there should be more to life? Do you long for greatness, fulfillment, and a life that lifts your spirit? In Your Soul's Quest, author Rod C Ezekiel integrates metaphysics with powerful success principles, taking you on an internal journey to discover your heart's deep love and the answers within the depths of your soul. Using exercises, stories, and Rod's gentle guidance, you will unlock the secrets hidden within you to find your authentic self and create a miraculous, new life. Your Soul's Quest offers answers to questions such as: How do you uncover the inborn soul strengths and genius that are linked to your purpose? How do you find alignment with your love to create authentic, meaningful goals? Through identifying what internal values you carry, you will come to understand why you make the decisions you do, and you'll learn how to rewire your belief system to replace limiting thoughts with boundlessly successful ones. By the end of the journey, you will comprehend your mission and purpose and be poised to embark on a life of significance with greater joy and wondrous creativity. Let's begin!

Who we most deeply are is mirrored in our artistic work. Our need for mirroring simultaneously attracts us to and repels us from our creative callings and relationships. It is one of life's great dilemmas. Artist's block and lover's block flow from the same pool. Often, we fear deeply the very thing needed to create original art, to experience intimate relationships and to live authentic lives: we are frightened by the impulse to be fully revealed to ourselves, and to others, as this most often entails exposing the unacceptable shadowy aspects of our humanity and risking rejection. Mirrors in all their manifold guises permit us to safely see and experience ourselves in reflection and become better acquainted with the rejected, ostracized aspects of our personalities. Creative work is one of the few places where we can truly express and witness lost aspects of our authentic selves. Within us a treasure beckons. This is what we spend our lives pursuing. What slows and distracts us is not the object we long for, but where we search. To find this precious gem, we must eventually return to our own creative spirits.

This is a book about the intersections of three dimensions. The first is the way social scientists and historians treat the history of psychiatry and healing, especially as it intersects with psychedelics. The second encompasses a reflection on the substances themselves and their effects on bodies. The third addresses traditional healing, as it circles back to our understanding of drugs and psychiatry. The chapters explore how these dimensions are distinct, but deeply intertwined, themes that offer important insights into contemporary healing practices. The intended audience of the volume is large and diverse: neuroscientists, biologists, medical doctors, psychiatrists, psychologists; mental health professionals interested in the therapeutic application of psychedelic substances, or who work with substance abuse, depression, anxiety, and PTSD; patients and practitioners of complementary and alternative medicine; ethnobotanists and ethnopharmacologists; lawyers, criminologists, and other specialists in international law working on matters related to drug policy and human rights, as well as scholars of religious studies, anthropologists, sociologists, and historians; social scientists concerned both with the history of science, medicine, and technology, and concepts of health, illness, and healing. It has a potentially large international audience, especially considering the increasing interest in “psychedelic science” and the growing spread of the use of traditional psychoactives in the West.

We never imagined we were sharing a spiritual journey. Yet we were and are on similar spiritual quests, albeit walking different pathways. Look beyond what eyes can see. Faith takes you past eternity. The torches flame on mountaintops lighting up the seeker's way. We walk on different roads carrying our different loads, but we all look to heaven when we pray. JER & CAL All people, if they will look, will find a spark of the Divine somewhere inside their beings.

Finding himself at midlife, feeling hollow and a little like fraud, Paul Hawker embarks on a journey into the wilderness. In the tradition of the vision quest, like a hero in a mythic tale, he leaves his family and community to spend 40 days and 40 nights on a New Zealand mountaintop knowing full well the solitude, deprivation, and dangers he will face from exposure to the elements. But like many mystics and sages before him, he chooses a path of physical and spiritual testing as way to break through the veneer of his life. Soul Quest: A Spiritual Odyssey through 40 Days and 40 Nights of Mountain Solitude is the ruthlessly honest account of Paul Hawker's attempt to open himself to the Source, to discern the voice of God in his life.

"Central Ink is both absorbing and challenging as it carries the reader through the author's journey of self discovery. I found myself reviewing old dreams with a new perspective as I saw with delight the marvelous interconnections Marica Lewton was able to make between her dreams, her writing, her drawing, and her life. Dream work comes alive through this personal approach which demonstrates the value of dream messages for one's life. A much needed addition to dream literature." Esther Conway, Ph.D.

"Marcia Lewton takes us to the fertile heartland of the dream world. These finely crafted and illustrated stories drawn from her personal work with dreams bring vibrantly alive the reality of soul and healing in the modern world." Yvonne Jarosz, Dream Therapist In Central Ink Marica Lewton follows a series of 68 dreams in a narrative using a number of her own poems, stories and pictures to demonstrate how dream work carried her through two deaths and several other losses. In addition to instructing the reader in ways to work with dreams, she tells her own soul story in an engaging and often humorous way. Each piece of creative work is related to a dream, showing clearly how the well of creativity can be drawn on through dreams, and how paying attention to dreams by drawing or writing about them inspires further dreams in an ever-flowing stream. The instructions to readers are easy to follow and should provide inspiration for anyone who wants to begin this fascinating approach to soul development.
