He was her mirror image. Now the mirror has cracked. Celeste and her identical twin brother, Noble, are as close as can be - until a tragic accident takes Noble's life. It's a loss that pushes their mother, a woman obsessed with New Age superstitions, over the edge. Desperate to keep her son 'alive', Celeste's mother forces her to cut her hair, wear boys' clothes - and take on Noble's identity. Celeste has virtually disappeared - until a handsome boy moves in next door, and Celeste will risk her mother's wrath to let herself come back to life.

Big Cat, Little Cat Turtleback

"[Blues for a Black Cat] brings back the nimble Vian in a collection of his short fiction, initially published as Les Fourmis in 1949. The work has the unmistakable flavor of the time and place, Claude Abadie's jazz band, the coded and absurdist messages of rebellion, the wistful fables, verbal riffs and goofy anarchic encounters; the mise-en-scene includes an expiring jazzman who sells his sweat, a cat with a British accent and a piano that mixes a cocktail when "Mood Indigo" is played."--Boston Globe

The Black Cat Boxer Books

The Black Cat is one of Poe's best-known sinister tales, as well as one of his great psychological tales. The combination of both elements, horror and psychology, seems to lead directly to the expression psychological terror, which we know today inspired by the artistic uniqueness of this author⁵ and which could be defined as that literary formula that aspires to combine fear, alienation and art. Leaving aside for the moment the alleged autobiographical and superstitious contents, there are three main themes that its author developed in "The Black Cat", and the three are closely related to each other. A young married couple leads a homey and peaceful life with their cat, until the young man begins to get carried away by the drink. Alcohol makes him irascible and in one of his fits of fury ends the life of the animal. A second cat appears on the scene and the family situation begins to crack
