HOWARD DAUGHERTY*Co-Operative Inquiry* Routledge

This is a sociological study of a Norwegian penal institution. The author spent two years in the institution, observing and interviewing inmates and staff, the target being to learn the extent to which American prisons fit with prison life in a different culture. He gives a fascinating answer to the question: Norwegian prisons were, at the time of the study, miles away from their American counterparts. The conflicts between prison officers and inmates were certainly there, but they took a very different form. Rather than engaging in deviant practices and norms, emphasising more or less solidary opposition against the staff, the Norwegian prisoners criticised the staff and the prison fiercely on the basis of their own norms; rather than engaging in deviance, they turned the common practises and norms of Norwegian society against the staff, engaging in a kind of moral surveillance of those in power. He coined the phrase of "ensoriousness" to this approach from the "bottom" of the prison. Mathiesen spells out the major causes of this different approach, from characteristics of this particular prison to broader social forces.

Sleep disorder experts discuss specific behavioral techniques, psychotherapeutic techniques and pharmacotherapy, comprehensive and integrated approaches, disorders of the sleep-wake schedule, and specific populations--the chronically ill and older adults. The field has seen rapid advances in recent years and has attained growing respectability--insomnia is now seen as something more than a manifestation of depression or simply an annoying nuisance to be extinguished with hyponotics.

These essays attempt to confront the effect of years of postmodernity and its promotion of individuality at the cost of solidarity and communal spirit. In the wake of this it suggests possible frameworks for an art study that restores a certain focus on communal spirit. It proposes, too, that art study's fragile position in contemporary society is a consequence of over-commercialisation and its resultant surface values. Consumerist and corporate ideology encourage the consumer/individual's self-realisation, seemingly divorced from communal interests. Within this isolation lies the potential breakdown of ethics. Therefore, I dream of a kinder society, i.e. one where we are engaged in realising the community, as its citizens. This is not blind obedience, but in a spirit of contributing to a whole (society). More specifically, it means allowing and, to a degree, maintaining art study, as a sphere of possibilities for budding citizen artists. It is envisaging art study as a discursive arena, and creating an academic space that allows for art's main contribution - the dislodging of the so-called proper - i.e. entrenched doctrine. I believe that art study can contribute to the improving of society, in the main, because art enacts a different sharing of the sensible.

5th of July 1983 I had close relatives experience, first I felt how I left the body lying in the bed at Rikshospitalet and saw my body from above, then I saw my life pass as in a revue on a TV screen so nothing from any church was yet in the church - so I saw a tunnel with light at the other end of the tunnel passed through the tunnel and there God and Jesus and the angels asked: "What are we going to do with Leif?" Then God decided that I would return to life: and I woke up in the hospital bed where there was full panic - and a young doctor explained that I had been declared dead. Then I tried to sing something but none of the songs at a Christian agricultural school that I learned the pass so I sang what I could of: "O great god!" 8/7 I was at the airport of the host on my way from Rikshospitalet to Namsos Hospital, and then I prayed to God and Jesus: "Dear God and Jesus let me become their children and let me become a Christian." Then God and Jesus immediately answered and God Spoke prophic through me as written in Ap.gj. "In the last days, I will pour out of my Spirit upon all flesh of the Lord ..." etc. Never read it and God spoke in my thunder through me - since in the ambulance I spoke to God and Jesus and asked them: Impossible to be correct because I have heard that no-one knows that God exists. "Yes!" so they. Yes, I only accepted it: So I said "Now that I know you're the truth, can I ask you something?" "Ask what you want!" so they. Then I said, "There are so many directions in Christianity and now that I know that Christianity is true, what shall I seek that will be right for you God?" Then there was a little time, so it came "Searching you Aage Samuelsen!" And then I came to do from 1984 and still stand for what he stood for 2016.
