The Theory of Literary Criticism Hodder Education
 This work examines Czech Structuralism from the mid-nineteen twenties until 1948 (J. Mukarovsky, R. Jakobson, F. Vodicka, R. Wellek, etc.), the Polish so-called Integral School, lasting from about 1930 until 1945, (M. Kridl, K. Budzyk, F. Siedlicki, D. Hopensztand, S. Zólkiewski), as well as R. Ingarden's views on literary criticism, i.e. that system of literary theory which together with Russian Formalism was termed "Slavic Structuralism". The whole period is examined in developmental chronology. Despite this, the goal is not a history of science, but to throw light on the system of literary criticism which Slavic Structuralism has bequeathed to us and to show to what extent and how it can be of use to us.

A study guide for American Literature to 1900 Creative Company
Designed for courses taught at the introductory level in Canadian universities and colleges, this new anthology provides a rich selection of literary texts. In each genre the anthology includes a vibrant mix of classic and contemporary works. Each work is accompanied by an author biography and by explanatory notes, and each genre is prefaced by a substantial introduction.

Pedagogically current and uncommon in its breadth of representation, The Broadview Introduction to Literature invites students into the world of literary study in a truly distinctive way. The Broadview Introduction to Literature: Poetry includes a broad range of both canonical authors and important but less-widely-known poets, and the poems are diverse in form, subject matter, and geographical and linguistic origin. Poems in translation from languages other than English are included with the original language text in facing page format.

The House on Mango Street Houghton Mifflin Harcourt
Using literature in the EFL classroom is not an easy task, especially when learners do not master a high level of language competence. However, the results of the inclusion of literature in our curricula are worth the effort, not only in terms of language improvement, but also of motivation and personal growth. Think Outside the Box comprises seven different proposals to help the EFL teacher in secondary schools open a space for the exploration of literary texts in their classes with young adults. These simple and ready-to-use sequences of activities, whose level of difficulty goes from level A2 to level B1 of the Common European Framework of Reference (CEFR), aim at catering for a wide range of situations by varying in: Genres: poems, novels, and a reader. Timing: going from one-class activities to longer ones that lead to projectwork. Topics and themes: the literary texts chosen not only explore those themes young adults are most interested in, like love, pain and loneliness, but also those that may be related to more universal ideas, like war, politics and stereotypes. Approaches: focusing on language, personal enrichment, author, theme, different literary devices and genres.

Published in 1983, this book considers how films are used in secondary school as teaching aids in English and Film courses. Based on a dissertation presented to Temple University, the book tackles three main questions: firstly, it explores the ways that film is used by secondary school English teachers as an adjunct to instruction. Secondly it surveys the number and types of courses offered in film study and filmmaking in specific secondary schools. Thirdly it compares and contrasts the extent and degree of teaching about film as an artistic medium of communication.
