First, philosophers have tried to disambiguate different senses of the term "imagination" and, in some cases, point to some core commonalities amongst the different disambiguations (section 1.1). Imagination (Stanford Encyclopedia of Philosophy) Imagination is the ability to produce and simulate novel objects, peoples and ideas in the mind without any immediate input of the senses. It is also described as the forming of experiences in the mind, which can be re-creations of past experiences such as vivid memories with imagined changes, or they can be completely invented and possibly fantastic scenes.
