first published in 1956, is the best of Mahfouz's work. He drew heavily on autobiography (like the character Kamal, he was the youngest son in a large merchant clan). He writes about family, and to understand the Egyptian family is to understand, more clearly than any political treatise can explain, the soul of the country. \"Palace Walk - Naguib Mahfouz - Complete Review The leisurely pace of the long opening can be tough going, but
