Centuries from now,
and millions of miles
away, how are the
sexes getting along?
Zandia, the farthest
planet in the known
universe, is usually peaceful, but they're about to have their views on women blown apart. Sui Erom has taken drastic measures to live as suits her, not society. Hiding on a transporter, she leaves her home planet for another world. Working as a translator, she feels intelligent and productive, although not entirely fulfilled. She has been unable to find a mate who satisfies any of her physical needs or one to trust with her heart. Xer Rich is the heir to the Zandian throne, he wants to enjoy a wide range of female companions, and expects to play the sport in which he excels. It's a shock when at the first match he hears the official translator's voice and is caught in her seductive yet familiar web. Xer soon realizes she is Zandian and must assert his right to have her in his bed. He will not be denied but things quickly spiral beyond what either of them expected. The Zandian national speedball team comes to Earth for a Universal competition and sets in motion events that force Sui to make a decision on what she wants from life and Xer to rethink his ultimate goals ... no problem.

 HQN Books
 HE DOESN'T WANT ME TO OFFER. HE PREFERS TO TAKE. DEMAND. CONQUER. I only intended to seduce the alien warrior. Because the game was to survive. Ingratiate myself to a new master. I never thought I'd fall for the giant horned warrior who rescued me from slavery. But it's easy to make him lose control. All I have to do is tempt him, and his need to master me takes over. His species battles to take back their planet. All of our futures dangle by a thread. We should cling together as we fight for freedom, but I'm afraid. When he learns my secret, it just may be the end for us.

Frost Burning Desires
 What produces mental illness: genes, environment, both, neither? The answer can be found in memes—replicable units of information linking genes and environment in the memory and in culture—whose effects on individual brain development can be benign or toxic. This book reconceptualizes mental disorders as products of stressful gene-meme interactions and introduces a biopsychosocial template for meme-based diagnosis and treatment. A range of therapeutic modalities, both broad-spectrum (meditation) and specific (cognitive-behavioral), for countering negative memes and their replication are considered, as are possibilities for memetic prevention strategies. In this book, the author outlines the roles of genes and memes in the evolution of the human brain; elucidates the creation, storage, and evolution of memes within individual brains; examines culture as a carrier and supplier of memes to the individual; provides examples of gene-meme interactions that can result in anxiety, depression, and other disorders; proposes a multi-axial gene-meme model for diagnosing mental illness; identifies areas of meme-based prevention for at-risk children; and defines specific syndromes in terms of memetic symptoms, genetic/memetic development, and meme-based treatment.

Burning Desires

My instincts warned me that Alex Volkov is a dangerous man. My mind told me to run when he set his sights on me with unfaltering determination. It's not that I didn't try to resist, but Alex had a game plan. He was always one step ahead of me, skillfully drawing me deeper into his web. Even when he gave me freedom, it was only an illusion. Now, even that illusion has vanished.

I'm his prisoner in the truest sense of the word, whisked away to Russia on his private plane. I no longer have a say, not while our lives are at risk, and maybe never again. Our story balances on a thin edge between disaster and happiness. With each day that passes, I grow less certain of which side the coin will land on... or if we'll even survive. Note: This is the conclusion of Alex and Kate's story.

The sweet human is pregnant with my pup. We had one night together and then she ghosted. Apparently, I'm not part of her "life plan." Whatever, baby. Plans change. She thinks I'm a player. That I won't stick around. She thinks I don't have what it takes to be a dad. That I won't drop everything and dedicate my life to our baby. To our family. To her. She's wrong. She thinks I'll walk away? She has no idea what she's in for. A wolf never walks away from his mate, and he always protects his pups. I may not have marked her yet, but I will. And if she tries to run, I'll follow.

It's not Dom's fault the barmy old geezer the village hired as Santa ran off with a stripper, but he's the one expected to fill the role. Eleven-hundred years of avoiding human kids down the drain.
