Italian Verb Drills, Fourth Edition McGraw-Hill

NATIONAL BESTSELLER • For anyone who wants to learn a foreign language, this is the method that will finally make the words stick. "A brilliant and thoroughly modern guide to learning new languages."—Gary Marcus, cognitive psychologist and author of the New York Times bestseller Gitars Zero At thirty years old, Gabriel Wyner speaks six languages fluently. He didn't learn them in school—who does? Rather, he learned them in the past few years, working on his own and practicing on the subway, using simple techniques and free online resources—and here he wants to show others what he's discovered. Starting with pronunciation, you'll learn how to rewire your ears and turn foreign sounds into familiar sounds. You'll retrain your tongue to produce those sounds accurately, using tricks from opera singers and actors. Next, you'll begin to tackle words, and connect sounds and spellings to imagery rather than translations, which will enable you to think in a foreign language. And with the help of sophisticated spaced-repetition techniques, you'll be able to memorize hundreds of words a month in minutes every day. This is brain hacking at its most exciting, taking what we know about neuroscience and linguistics and using it to create the most efficient and enjoyable way to learn a foreign language in the spare minutes of your day.

Not illustrated. 1863 edition. Excerpt: ... E fin son l' un dell' altro e biasmi e glorie, E che fidarsi all' uom non si conviene In suo tesoro, suo regno e sue vittorie; Ne disperarsi per fortuna avversa, Che sempre la sua rota in giro versa.--Arias. One sees by the examples of which ancient and modern histories are full, that success follows close upon failure, and failure upon success, and that the end of one and the other are blame and glory; and that it is not good for man to put trust in his treasure, in his kingdom, and his victories, nor to despair on account of adverse Fortune, who always is turning round her wheel. CHAPTER XI. The Regular Verbs. Section I.--The Verbal Foems. We shall discuss the verbs in a somewhat brief manner, as the student, by the means of the Exercises, has already gained considerable information concerning them. 1. In Italian we possess three conjugations, which are distinguished, as in Latin, by the termination of the infinitive mood. The first conjugation has its infinitive ending in are, the second in ere, and the third in ire. Every Italian verb falls under one of these three conjugations, according to the termination of the infinitive mood. 2. The part of the verb which is subject to change is the characteristic termination of the infinitive mood; the preceding letters are immutable. Thus are, ere, ire, are the parts which suffer change; and these according to the conjugations of these verbs. 3. Throughout every tense and mood of these conjugations the second person singular ends in i, the first person plural in mo, and the second person plural in te. The third person plural of all tenses, except the future, the conditional, and the imperfect subjunctive, end in no preceded by a short syllable. The future assumes nn in the third person...
