For introductory courses in Financial Accounting. A User-Focused Approach and Solid Foundation in the Construction and Analysis of Financial Statements for Use in Future Courses and Careers Financial Accounting gives readers a solid foundation in the fundamentals of accounting and the basics of Financial Statements, and then builds upon that foundation to offer more advanced/challenging concepts and problems. This scaffolded approach helps students to better understand the meaning and relevance of financial information, see its relevance within a real-world context, as well as develop the skills needed to analyse financial information in both their course and career. While maintaining hallmark features of accuracy, readability, ease of understanding, and a wealth of accessible algorithmic problems, the 11th Edition includes updated explanations, coverage, and ratio analysis with decision-making guidelines. These latest methodologies and technology ensure that students learn basic concepts in accounting in a way that is relevant, stimulating, and fun, while exercises and examples from real-world companies help students gain a better grasp of the course material.

Introduction to Financial Accounting Pearson Higher Ed

Lecture Notes from the year 2016 in the subject Business economics - Accounting and Taxes, grade: 1,3, , language: English, abstract: The following text was created as part of the university module "Financial accounting according to IFRS standards". This work will introduce the financial reporting procedure as well as the legal framework and enable the reader to create (simple) financial statements on his/her own. Several examples and numerical figures as well as visual displays support the understanding. At the end, there is a summary about the balance sheet adjustments and a kind of FAQ (as part of the exam preparation). Please be aware that the international approaches are very similar to the German ones, but are not always the same. This work is made from the notes taken during lectures and supplemented by additional information and pictures from secondary literature, namely "Financial Accounting - International financial reporting standards", published by Pearson and written by Walter T. Harrison Jr. and Charles T. Horngreen. Additionally, some information from this book was visually displayed in self-made figures, diagrams and compilations. If an image is not marked otherwise, it's self-created.

Financial accounting (or financial accountancy) is the field of accounting concerned with the summary, analysis and reporting of financial transactions pertaining to a business. This involves the preparation of financial statements available for public consumption. Stockholders, suppliers, banks, employees, government agencies, business owners, and other stakeholders are examples of people interested in receiving such information for decision making purposes. Financial accountancy is governed by both local and international accounting standards. GAAP (which stands for Generally Accepted Accounting Principles) is the standard framework for guidelines for financial accounting used in any given jurisdiction. It includes the standards, conventions and rules that accountants follow in recording and summarising and in the preparation of financial statements. On the other hand, IFRS (International Financial Reporting Standards) is a set of international accounting standards stating how particular types of transactions and other events should be reported in financial statements. IFRS are issued by the International Accounting Standards (IASs). With IFRS becoming more widespread on the international scene, consistency in financial reporting has become more prevalent between global organisations. Whilst financial accounting is used to prepare accounting information for people outside the organisation or not involved in the day-to-day running of the company, management accounting provides accounting information to help managers make decisions to manage the business.

This unique book is not written from a specific national perspective, but adopts an international approach throughout. It treats the topic of International Financial Accounting and Reporting as a subject in its own right and not as an alternative or an extension to the existing domestic regulatory framework. The book begins with an introduction to accounting and financial reporting, followed by a description of the development of international standards and the present structure, role and operations of the International Accounting Standards Board. While a major part of the book is devoted to a discussion on individual IFRS (International Financial Reporting Standards), it also discusses income statements, balance sheets and cash flow statements. These financial statements are examined in the context of International Financial Reporting regulations and students are introduced to the main IFRS relating to those statements. Subsequent chapters examine individually, the more complex standards. A complimentary copy of the Instructor's Manual and the PowerPoint presentations of the text materials are available for all instructors who adopt this book as a course text.
