A nation's capability of self-sustainability is seen as the foremost marker for it to be considered a developed nation. Its self-sufficiency in agriculture, economy, health and education facilities for its citizens builds its sustainability. An ideal nation should be able to fulfil the basic needs for each of its citizen on its own. To achieve this level of self-sufficiency was one of India's former President Dr. A.P.J. Abdul Kalam's major aspirations for the country. Creating A Livable Planet is a volume especially compiled with an aim to preserve and spread Dr. Kalam's enlightening and informative ideas on the usage of right technology to benefit and improve India's agriculture, economy, atmosphere and health of citizens. He, through these articles, educates the citizens, both young and old, on how using inexpensive, conventional and nature-friendly techniques can help us enrich our agriculture, environment and health. He also advocates the adoption of necessary modern technologies that could help our society evolve.

This Coloring series is to help our planet. Every day, one day at a time, the human family and the community of life on Earth moves into the future. More than at any time in human history, what we do today will affect generations to come. What will the world be like when our grandchildren are grown, with children of their own? Each year, We, the World celebrates 11 Days of Global Unity starting on September 11 and ending on September 21, the International Day of Peace. In 2019, we celebrate the 15th Anniversary with a musical journey through 11 Gardens of Global Unity. In each Garden, grandparents will find tools and resources to help them take their place as the Elders of this generation, to help guide children and youth through tumultuous changes in the transition to a world that works for all. We are sowing and growing a Culture of Peace. It all starts with a vision of what we want to see. Let's take a moment to quiet our minds, look into our hearts and imagine a world that works for all life on Earth. Can you see it? Take a few minutes to wander around in this environmentally sustainable, spiritually fulfilling, socially just human presence on this planet. Feel the peace in your own heart. How far in the future does that vision seem to you? What would have to happen in order for that vision to become a reality? As we prepare ourselves to take our next steps into the future, we hold that vision in our hearts to guide our choices day by day. These closing words of the Earth Charter summarize the statement of ethical values and principles for a global society. Let ours be a time remembered for the awakening of a new reverence for life, the firm resolve to achieve sustainability, the quickening of the struggle for justice and peace, and the joyful celebration of life. Launched in the year 2000, the Earth Charter now inspires a global movement of organizations and individuals that use its 16 principles to guide the transition towards a more just, sustainable, and peaceful world.<https://earthcharter.org/>You can read the full Earth Charter at <https://earthcharter.org/discover/the-earth-charter/>. As we walk on the Road to 2020 and Beyond, we will meet people who believe that a sustainable, just and peaceful world is not only possible, it is inevitable. We will see what they are doing today for a better tomorrow.

This book tells the story of a new historical dialectic in the world between two parallel processes—construction and destruction. The author proposes that a constructive global collective consciousness emerged in the nineteenth century, and humanity has since progressed toward the achievement of a more just and peaceful world. Outworn and destructive mindsets that have constituted the root causes of war for millennia—such as racism, nationalism, religious strife, gender inequality and extremes of wealth and poverty—have now been fully exposed and delegitimized. Those who have profited from these divisive attitudes, however, are bound to take a last stand. Amidst the blinding haze generated by the accelerating collapse of outworn mindsets and institutions, this book brings into focus the forward march of the constructive process toward peace, and the powerful role each of us can play in its realization.

World Peace Sealifters Press, Incorporated

In a world that increasingly sees religion as a source of violence, this book explores resources from within religious traditions that might help build peace. Drawing from the rich textual histories of Christianity and Islam, the contributors mine their faith traditions for ways of thinking and ways of being that help shift perceptions about religion, and actively contribute to the growth of peace in our troubled times. Not content with retreat into religious exclusivism, these essays are an act of sharing something held dear. In sharing, the thing offered no longer remains the possession of the one who offers, and so these essays are an act of vulnerability and trust-building. In sharing precious things together, in giving and receiving, peace becomes not only a matter of dialogue, but also shared commitments to ways of being.

"NU MENTALITY IN A NU AGE--An Examination of Good and Evil." If we expect to truly create a lasting peace on our planet, we should first make sure that we have made our peace with the question of good and evil, itself. Otherwise, it will fester under the surface of our conscious awareness and express itself in the most evil and disastrous ways, right under our noses without being detected as such, hidden in any number of disguises; and it will continue to cause havoc in our individual and collective lives until we have smoked it out into the open and confronted it face to face. Why is this so important? We as a planet must face the fact that we killed 300 million people in wars of one kind or another during the 20th century, which is approximately equal to the population of the United States. And we must face the fact that most of those mass murders were committed under the seemingly innocent guise of dividing the world into good and evil people, then declaring proudly that we were, of course, the good people, and that our enemy was, of course, the evil people; then it was our responsibility as good people to attack the evil people in any way possible so as to eliminate that evil from the face of the earth. Rationality was, of course, difficult to come by in making these decisions if a gun was pointed at our collective head, on either side of the battle line. Does this sound all too familiar? That is because it is the basic dichotomy that draws the lines in each war--or mass murder of any kind--on the planet. So unless we deal with this exact question of the nature of good and evil so that we have mastered it to the point that it cannot rear its ugly head ever again without being detected for exactly what it really is--individual and collective insanity--then we will not be able to achieve lasting peace on the planet. We are to the point in our history where we can no longer claim sanity as individuals or as nations to the extent that we continue to use this barbaric thought process to determine our behaviors on any level of human interactions. These complexities are discussed in this book in an attempt to see the question of good and evil for what it is, and then to use our most mature behaviors to control it so that it does not cause the damage it is capable of causing in all our human relationships. We owe it to all those 300 million people whom we murdered in one way or another last century, who are all crying out from their graves that we must find a solution to this problem of official mass murder called war. Those 300 million people innocently died because we had not yet solved this underlying, hidden problem. We are obligated to them to get to the bottom of our penchant for mass murder, which we label everything but what it really is. It is time we labeled it correctly: It is evil, itself.

A POCKET MANUAL TO SAVE THE PLANET offers a series of specific and practical proposals for dealing with the three most important issues that threaten to destroy our national and inter-national societies to one extent or another: GLOBAL DEPRESSION: This possibility will be triggered if and when our government defaults on its mountain of debts and essentially declares bankruptcy, which will be followed by a global depression. This is predicted by many of our best economists to happen sometime between roughly 2014 and 2016. GLOBAL WARMING: This peril is presently melting our ice caps and mountain glaciers, slowly raising the level of our oceans until they potentially flood the low-lying areas of our global civilization; that is where about 50% of our global population lives within about 50 miles of our coast lines. This is variously predicted by our best environmental scientists to happen by about the end of the 21st century with about 3-6 feet of water, so it requires action now to prevent it because it is already set in place to happen; and many scientists say we have already passed the point where we can prevent it from happening. GLOBAL ARMAMENTS: We now spend, as a planet, approximately $1.75 trillion a year on armaments and wars of one kind or another. If we continue to spend our scarce resources on killing each other rather than preventing global depressions and defeating global warming, we will be hopelessly unable to create peace on our planet, and therefore we may allow the destruction of our global civilization at the hands of global warming. This inability to live in peace rather than war already resulted in our killing 300 million human beings during the 20th century. That figure is about equal to the total population of the United States. GLOBAL PEACE. So we are a doomed global civilization if we do not prevent a global depression, defeat global warming, and achieve global disarmament. We can ignore all of the warning signs of our coming devastation, but it is our futures that we are gambling away by our lethargy, as well as the futures of our children and grandchildren. This is because, in order to prevent the invasion of these ocean waters, we need to become a completely coordinated global unit, that acts according to a single, global, heartbeat. This is a level of global co-operation that we will never be able to achieve in the middle of the social chaos of a global depression or continuous military conflicts, so we could never defeat global warming before it invades our coastal civilizations with 3-6 feet of water. Therefore: If we don't create a stable, global economy; if we don't achieve global disarmament; then we won't be able to defeat global warming and prevent the invasion of our coastal areas with 3-6 feet of water; so we can kiss our global civilization good-bye. But if we start soon enough; if we lay down our arms together; if we work together with each other all over the world to prevent a global depression and to defeat global warming; then we will be able to live in global peace. "They shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks. Nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war anymore." (Isaiah 2:4) We can finally fulfill Isaiah's prophesy if we will take it to heart and live in peace rather than in war. These goals are within our grasp, if we will take these necessary steps.

The writing of this book was both a spiritual and intellectual journey. It took more than ten years to complete while having to be revised and updated constantly. This is no-holds-barred literature where the author says what he means and means what he says! He does not mint his words. The Conscious Planet thinks outside the box and breaks all the rules of traditional thinking. Sometimes this information can be brutally honest or painfully real. The author is not trying to win any popularity contest. He tells it like it really is and doesn't care what anyone thinks! The Conscious Planet is what the government and big corporations who control it don't want you to know! It is the truth about the truth and nothing but the truth, so help me! In the modern world, people only know what multinational corporations want them to know, not what they should know! And it is this tainted knowledge which is creating a society of pathetic drones, who like doomed sheep, are too busy just trying to survive to see that the wool is being pulled over their eyes while being led to slaughter! Because these corporate imperatives are being paid for at the expense of the future of mankind! Before you patronize any product, be conscious about what it's doing to your health, to the earth, and how it will affect future generations. Skeptics have warned the author that this book will receive nominal success, that it represents a small niche market, and not everyone would be interested in such literature. And in retort to this assertion, it should be acknowledged that yes, it is sadly true that not everyone would be interested in this book because the information herein may not pertain directly to their life or general well being. So in understanding, who would be interested in this book, let's narrow it down by eliminating the types of individual who would not directly benefit: 1. People who are immortal: Yes, these people might not care about this book: heck, if you were immortal, you might eat Twinkies and cheese-burgers all day long. 2. People who have another planet to live on: This is true: why would they care if the world goes to hell in a handbasket? See Ya! Well, lucky them: however, for the other seven billion people who inhabit the planet earth who are not immortal, and who don't have another planet to live on -- then this book is absolutely the most important book they may ever read! Why is the Koran the deeper abstract cause of terrorism? What can Muslims and non-Muslims do about this? How can we help Muslims liberate themselves from medieval ways of thinking? Is there more in the world than Islam, Mohammed and terrorism? What is a real Muslim? How can an anti-Muslim be defined? Hindu writer Dewanand provides answers to all these questions in a striking and scientific way, trying to present the interests of both Muslims and non-Muslims in a tactical way. Dewanand says he wrote this book to make sacrifices to Altecra and to show concern for all living creatures. Discover for yourself if he has reached his goal, when you read Koran: Forbid or Rewrite? In the first chapters, the PV Muslim scientific model scale is revealed. This is a psychological vectored model for classifying Muslims to understand them better. Dewanand says his book is intended to show respect for Muslims and to help them to grow spiritually. "I wanted to reform Islam and end the suffering and violence in many Islamic nations. I was raised as a Muslim by my mother and later on I converted to Hinduism." His book is the meeting point of three old civilizations: Islam, Western and Hinduism. That's why it is so important for the future of Islam and religion. Dewanand grew up in Surinam and at age twenty went to Holland to study. He now lives in Delft, Holland. He has published numerous books in Dutch and these can be found on his website, www.dewanand.com.
