The objective of this work is to identify those Maryland
heroes who became casualties

during the War of 1812.
By definition,
a casualty is a
military
person lost by
death,
wounds,
injury,
sickness,
internment, or capture or through being missing in action. This book is based on available
records and it is not a complete list
because many men who were

wounded in battle in 1814
treated
themselves
and fought on;
thus, many
were not recorded as such on
company
muster rolls.
Still others
would be recorded if they were unable to serve for a period of time and would be listed as sick
or absent in hospital and even more men reported their wounds only when they were in the process of applying for government assistance in their old age, such as for bounty land or a pension. There are 2,890 soldiers and seamen listed in this book; many with biographical data. Entries are listed alphabetically by surname. The amount of information given in each entry varies greatly; however, entries typically include: surname, given name, rank or occupation, illness or injury (if stated), cause and date of death (if applicable), and source of information. Entries may also contain any combination of the following: age, height, place of birth, place of service or work, date of enlistment, years served, date of discharge, place of discharge, name of heir (spouse or sibling or children), prisoner of war data, and much more. "1812 Monuments to the Soldiers" follows the entries and gives detailed accounts, with photographs, of: Aquila Randall Monument, Armistead Statue Monument at Ft. McHenry, Armistead Monument at Federal Hill, Battle Monument, Battle Acre Park, Bladensburg Monument, Caulk's Field Monument, Fort McHenry Wayside

Marker, North Point Battlefield Park, Sam Smith Statue Monument, and, Wells and McComas Monument. Battle of North Point-- Americans Died, British Dead or Wounded in Maryland, and Additional Sources complete this work. Heritage Books This reference work chronicles and categorizes more than 23,000 Union casualties at Gettysburg by generals and staff and by state and unit. Thirteen appendices also cover information by brigade, division and corps; by engagements and skirmishes; by state; by burial at three cemeteries; and by hospitals. Casualty transports, incarceration records and civilian casualty lists are also included. Records Relating to American Prisoners of War and Missing-in-action Personnel from the Korean Conflict and During the Cold War Era Forgotten Books This list of casualties for the Vietnam War for the State of Florida were compiled using information gathered through the Vietnam Conflict Extract Data Files from the Office of the Secretary of Defense. Information provided includes name, service, rank/rate, birth date, city, county, incident or death date, and whether their remains were recovered. Each soldier has a Home of Record listed. This location may not necessarily indicate the individual's place of birth, but rather their city of enlistment.

Createspace Independent Publishing Platform Michigan Genealogy identifies records on the state and regional level and then the county level, providing details of vital records, court and land records, military records, newspapers, and census records, as well as the holdings of the various societies and institutions whose resources and facilities support the special needs of the genealogist. This thoroughly revised and expanded edition lists, county by county, the names addresses, websites, e-mail addresses, and hours of business of libraries, archives, genealogical and historical societies, courthouses, and other record repositories; describes their manuscripts and record collections; highlights their special holdings; and provides details regarding queries, searches, and restrictions on the use of their records. Strangers in Arms Heritage Books This list of casualties for the Vietnam War for the State of Illinois were compiled using information gathered through the Vietnam Conflict Extract Data Files from the Office of the Secretary of Defense. Why do soldiers fight? What keeps them going? What compels them to face death when their long-time comrades have fallen around them? Strangers in Arms addresses these questions in a groundbreaking study of the behaviour, morale, and motivations of Canadian infantrymen on the front lines of the Second World War. Canada's army has long faced intense criticism for its combat performance during the war, and Canada's official history has presented Canadian soldiers as deficient, inexperienced, and unprepared in comparison with their enemies. Questioning entrenched views, Robert Engen explores a trove of contemporaneous documents to create a remarkable new portrait of Canadians at war. Rather than the popular "band of brothers" image of soldier cohesion in battle, he finds staggering casualty rates and personnel turmoil that left Canadian infantrymen often working with and fighting beside men they hardly knew. Yet these strangers in arms continued to fight - effectively and in good spirits - against a tenacious and deadly enemy, triumphing in the face of heartrending loss and sacrifice. Challenging old narratives about the Canadian soldier and supported by cutting-edge empirical and qualitative research, Strangers in Arms crafts a new understanding of what happens at the sharp end of battle. Menin Gate North	Createspace Independent Publishing Platform Excerpt from The Roll of Honour, Vol. 1: A Biographical Record of All Members of His Majesty's Naval and Military Forces Who Have Fallen in the War; With Some 2, 500 Portraits The purpose of the Roll of Honour is to place on permanent record the name of every officer, non-commissioned officer and man of His Majesty's Forces, on land or sea,	who is killed in action, who dies of wounds, or whose death is otherwise resulting from the present war. The work is to be issued in a series of volumes, and the arrangement is alphabetical. The name, rank and regiment of every one whose name appears in the official casualty lists are included, and where details have been obtainable, the parentage, place and date of birth, schools, a biographical sketch of career, and date and place of death, with extracts from letters of Commanding Officers or comrades relating to the action in which the officer or man fell, or to the particular circumstances of his death. The names of children have been included so that in the years to come they may themselves read, or teach their children to read, of the glorious way in which their fathers died and of those individual acts of bravery that are the chief redeeming features of war. The present volume contains some names, and deals with casualties during the first year of the war, though certain exceptions have been made in order that relatives, though killed at different periods, may be included together. In every case it has been found possible to give the full name and to state the actual date, and the locality, of death, and these details must add very greatly to the value of the record, as they are not to be found in the Official Casualty Lists. A large number of portraits of officers and men will be found included. With some casualties it was obviously clearly impossible that one should be given in every case, but when a portrait is supplied, the publishers do their best to include it. The three following volumes, which are at present in course of completion or preparation, will, it is hoped, be issued this year. These are the second and third volumes for 1914-15, and the first volume for 1916. It is earnestly hoped that relatives of those deceased in the service will, by furnishing particulars, co-operate in carrying out what is, even with the official facilities which are being given, an exceedingly difficult task. Vietnam War Casualty List

Createspace Independent Publishing Platform Describes the kinds of population, immigration, military, and land records found in the National Archives, and shows how to use them for genealogical research Preliminary Inventory of the Records of the Adjutant General's Office Jones & Bartlett Publishers

This is a comprehensive and highly emotive volume, borne of years of intensive research and many trips to the battlefields of the Great War. It seeks to humanize the Menin Gate Memorial (North), to offer the reader a chance to engage with the personal stories of the soldiers whose names have been chiseled there in stone. Poignant stories of camaraderie, tragic twists of fate and noble sacrifice have been collated in an attempt to bring home the reality of war and the true extent of its tragic cost. It is hoped that visitors to the battlefields, whether their relatives are listed within or not, will find their experience enriched by having access to this treasure trove of stories.
