The 1994 conference of the European Association for Health Information and Libraries drew together an exceptional group of invited speakers and contributed papers. Speakers came from every part of Europe, from North America and even Australia, and almost all the papers presented to the conference are collected together in this volume. They represent an important summary of the state of the art in libraries and information services in the medical and health areas and are a rich source of advice, assistance and information for everyone working in related fields. Inevitably most of the conference themes concentrated on the important growth areas of the profession - computer-based information services, networking (and particularly the Internet) and CD-ROMs. More general topics were not ignored, though, and these proceedings contain many interesting contributions on identifying the needs of library users and evaluating how well these are being met; and there is also a small but important section on the history of medicine.

This is a comprehensive source of information on the application of ion chromatography (IC) in the analysis of pharmaceutical drugs and biologicals. This book, with contributors from academia, pharma, the biotech industry, and instrument manufacturing, presents the different perspectives, experience, and expertise of the thought leaders of IC in a comprehensive manner. It explores potential IC applications in different aspects of product development and quality control testing. In addition, an appendix section gives information on critical physical and chromatographic parameters related to IC and information on current manufacturers of IC systems, columns, and other components.
