The Owl Forgotten Books
Excerpt from Les Petits Oiseaux Eugene Luncna was born in Paris in 1815.
He studied at the College Bourbon and the Ecoin de Droit. Like many other French men of letters, he was trained to practise law and drifted into authorship, which at first took the form of articles and brief stories in various newspapers. His earliest play, a vaudeville, was staged in 1838, and was followed by about one hundred and fifty light comedies through the course of four decades.

Though many of these comedies are as short as 168 Petits Oiseaux, the majority are two or three times as long. In 1876 Labiche realized that his latest productions were meeting with declining popular favor, and abstained from further play writing. His Theatre Compleat appeared in print in 1878 - 79. Its publication was due to the insistent urging of his friend Emile Augier, a distinguished dramatist. In spite of its title, it contains only a third of the plays Labiche had written. The appearance of these ten volumes containing his best comedies was the occasion of a review of his work as a whole by the critics, and a general discussion of its value. His election to membership in the French Academy followed in 1880. It is questionable whether his comedies entitled him to this distinction. Labiche was inclined to think the honor undeserved. He died in Paris in 1888. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books. Olivier Messiaen's Oiseaux exotiques is arguably the first of Messiaen's major works to create a successful synthesis between his music and his passion for ornithology. Messiaen regarded birdsong as music--a belief that led for a time to an obsession with truth-to-nature. Here, Peter Hill and Nigel Simeone provide the background to Oiseaux exotiques, discussing Messiaen's relations with the 1950s avant garde and his involvement with the concerts of the Domaine musical, for which Oiseaux exotiques was composed. The authors analyse Messiaen's compositional methods in unprecedented detail and trace step-by-step the evolution of musical ideas from first notation to finished score. "Catalogue d'oiseaux began as notes sent to poet Aaron Tucker's long-distance partner. Not initially intended for publication, the writings moved, over time, into a long, lyrical, confessional love poem. Following the couple on travels across the globe--from Berlin to the Yukon, Porto to Toronto--this poem is expansive, moving sensually through small, intimate spaces and the larger world alike. Traced through art, architecture and the cultural life of varied cities, Catalogue d'oiseaux lives between geographies and chronologies as a kaleidoscopic gathering of the many fractals that make up a couple's life. This is a stunning work; a celebration of the depth of adult love, and the elemental parts of life that make it so."--

"Zoological Record is published annually in separate sections. The first of these is Comprehensive Zoology, followed by sections recording a year's literature relating to a Phylum or Class of the Animal Kingdom. The final section contains the new genera and subgenera indexed in the volume." Each section of a volume lists the sections of that volume.

L'univers poétique du duo de photographes espagnols Anna Cabrera et Angel Albarrán est ici présenté au fil d'un voyage onirique au pays des oiseaux. 07e titre de la collection "Des Oiseaux" Le temps, la mémoire, la beauté sont des thèmes qui traversent toute l'oeuvre des photographes. " Nous cherchons à expérimenter la beauté de la découverte ", précisent-ils. Entre réel et illusion, l'image interroge notre rapport au monde tangible. " La photographie nous aide à comprendre la réalité, les images sont comme des notes visuelles dans un carnet. " Chaque image est comme une histoire arrêtée. Ses nuances chromatiques, nous immergent dans la couleur. Cabrera et Albarrán utilisent de nombreux procédés: tirage platine, au palladium, cyanotype, gélatine argentique, impression pigmentée. L'image se fait vibration sensible. Pour la collection Des oiseaux, le duo a réalisé des photographies spécialement pour le livre.

La beauté de l'éphémère, une certaine mélancolie mais aussi la fragilité de l'instant saisi par l'objectif se révèlent au fil d'images en couleurs mordorées ou en monochrome. Les oiseaux semblent tout droit sortis de contes fantastiques; ils prennent leur envol sur des surfaces miroitantes, se dispersent parmi de sombres frondaisons. Les cadrages serrés soulignent leur présence physique. Les oiseaux deviennent presque abstraits. Cou souple bicolore d'un couple de cygnes, bec immaculé d'une poule d'eau d'un noir lustré, ailes de palombes déployées aux pennes argentées, plumes de paon au somptueux tombé: le jeu formel des formes sert de contrepoint à la saturation des couleurs. Cabrera et Albarrán laissent l'interprétation de leurs images à la mémoire du spectateur, s'inscrivant dans la démarche de Joan Miró, qui dans son tableau Bird in Space, donne une représentation minimale de l'oiseau, à travers des points ou des ombres, pour laisser voler notre imagination.

Sweety grows up and becomes stronger. He wants to see the world outside. He pushes his sisters Chirpy and Cheerpy and sticks his head out of the nest. The leaves glitter under the sun. The sky is blue and the air is cool. Sweety would like to fly as Daddy and Mommy, but he doesn't know how. Daddy scolds "You are too young, wait a little bit more." Sweety is sad. The next day, as soon as his father and mother are gone, Sweety quickly puts his head outside. Chirpy and Cheerpy also want to put their head outside the nest, so they push and they push. Sweety falls; gliding along the branches, he tries to grab the leaves, he screams: "Mommy, Mommy" He is so afraid!
