Materia Medica Pura ... Translated ... by R.E. Dudgeon ... With Annotations by Richard Hughes B. Jain Publishers

Excerpt from Materia Medica Pura, Vol. 1 When an extraordinary circumstance of any kind, fright, chagrin, fear, external injuries, the excessive enjoyment of any one pleasure, or some great, important event, supervened during the trial, then no symptom has been recorded after such an event, in order to prevent spurious symptoms being noted as genuine. When that circumstance was of no importance, and could not be supposed to interfere with the action of the medicine, then the symptoms have been placed in brackets, for the pur pose of informing the reader that they could not be considered decisively genuine. Translated ... by R. E. D., etc* Nabu Press This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text. Purchasers can usually download a free scanned copy of the original book (without typos) from the publisher. Not indexed. Not illustrated. 1846 edition. Excerpt: ...does not come on during the meal, but several minutes after the meal; it increases and decreases gradually; does not come on after drinking. Toothache, in the evening after lying down, and when engaged in some kind of intellectual activity; a still pain in the dental nerve, almost resembling a sore pain, or a continuous lancination in severe cases. Toothache; sharp drawing from the ear down into the hollow teeth of the upper jaw; in the teeth the pain became boring, less when eating, increasing after the meal, never ceasing entirely by day, but worst at night, and hindering sleep'; (after drinking coffee, the pain became jerking and boring.) Dull drawing in the upper and right row of teeth, the whole night; the pain hindered sleep; the affected pot was somewhat swollen, (painfully burning,) and hot to the touch; painful jerks were occasionally felt in the teeth.--435. Stinging pain in one of the upper, hollow molares, lasting the whole day; from pain he sleeps only a little during the night; afterwards the cheeks become swelled. Grinding (searching) toothache, (lasting only a short while.) The fore-teeth feel too long. The teeth are painful when hiting, as if the roots were ulcerated, and would break off immediately. Painful dartings or bubblings in the nerves of the roots of one or more teeth. Mouth: --440. Sensation as if the mouth were more spacious, as if the tongue were lower than usual. Sensation in the upper side of the tongue, as if it had gone to sleep, as if it were dead and furred, in the morning. Sensation of coldness and dryness in the anterior half of the tongue. The whole of the tongue is painful, especially to the touch. Cracked tongue, white-coated, with ptyalism.--445. Smarting pain in the middle of the white-coated..

Materia Medica Pura Forgotten Books

Excerpt from Materia Medica Pura, Vol. 3 I have read a number of partial criticisms on the second part of my Materia Medica Pura, and especially on my treatise entitled Spirit of the Homeopathic doctrine. According to the general custom of authors, I might take this opportunity of showing up the folly of the authors of those criticisms. But I shall forbear. I do not wish to burden myself with the crime of perpetuating the errors of my foes, lest I should thus reveal them to a more enlightened posterity. This is a reproduction of the original artefact. Generally these books are created from careful scans of the original. This allows us to preserve the book accurately and present it in the way the author intended. Since the original versions are generally quite old, there may occasionally be certain imperfections within these reproductions. We're happy to make these classics available again for future generations to enjoy!
